Board of Trustees Assigns Teachers and Fix Their Compensation.

Janitors as Special Policemen—An Ordinance Imposing a Tax Meets With Objection—Opening of Schools Postponed to 20th Inst.

Certain patrons of the Holt Street School presented a communication asking that the school be continued for girls only, instead of a united school, as ordered by the board at its July meeting. It was filed.

MISCELLANEOUS.
The matter of adopting supplementary reading in geography for the schools was referred to the Committee on Text Books and Teachers. The books before the board were submitted by Silver, Burdette & Co., Boston, through Mr. James M. Martin, of Norfolk. A series will, it is said, also be submitted by the B. F. Johnston Company, of Richmond.

Attention was called by Superintendent Doble to the new city ordinance requiring parents of children to pay the school tax of 50 cents before their children are allowed to be entered at school, provided the father is a resident of the city. The ordinance does not apply to widows.

A point was made against the ordinance on the ground that it is unconstitutional and contrary to the spirit of public education.

A motion to instruct the Superintendent to publish the ordinance for the information and government of the patrons of the schools resulted in a tie vote.

The matter was then referred to the City Attorney for an opinion as to the duty of the Superintendent under said ordinance, and he to abide by that official decision.

OPENING POSTPONED.
The board decided to postpone the opening of the schools until the 20th of September.

The Committee on Buildings and Property were instructed to invite the Councils and School Board to visit and inspect the new buildings after their completion.

AMAN HUNT.
WADE CHECK ESCAPES FROM PRINCESS ANNE JAIL.
Monday morning when the jailer at the Princess Anne county jail went in to clean up he left the door open behind him, and Wade Check, a prisoner confined therein, taking advantage of the opportunity to gain his liberty, coolly walked out. He made his way to Virginia Beach, and was seen there in the clothes of a vagrant. He telegraphed the fact to the Courthouse, and the answer came back to capture Check. Mr. Drinkwater organized an armed posse, and the man hunt was on.

A RUNNING FIRE.
Check evidently got hungry, as he was seen around the kitchen of one of the cottages. The posse immediately gave chase and started a running fire at the now thoroughly frightened dakey, who was making record time down the board walk. The chase continued as far as the Atlantic Hotel.

At the quarry door, where some buildings and threw his pursuers off the track. They did not give up the pursuit, however, but determined to land their man.

HUNGRY AGAIN.
In the afternoon Check's appetite again got the better of him, and he was seen by one of the posse hiding near the same kitchen. The posse was quickly collected, and it was augmented by a number of new aspirants for man-hunting honors. They were a little more confident this time, however, and were not cautious enough in approaching their man. Nevertheless they surrounded him and opened fire from all sides. Check, however, didn't care to be caught like a rat in a trap, and summoning all his courage, made a gallant dash for liberty.

LUCK ATTENDS CHECK.
Check broke through the ring of shooters and made tracks for the woods, where he successfully concealed himself. The posse were disgusted at their failure, but are determined to capture him, and should he tarry in that locality much longer, exciting times are looked for.

Change at the Princess Anne.
A few days ago Mr. E. J. Hendee retired from the management of the Princess Anne Hotel, at Virginia Beach, and left for New York. He is succeeded by Mr. Frank P. Morton, late manager of the leading hotel at Greensboro, N. C. Of Mr. Morton the Greensboro (N. C.) Record of last Thursday says: "Frank P. Morton, manager of the Benbow until its destruction by fire, has been tendered and accepted the position of manager of the Princess Anne Hotel, at Virginia Beach, and leaves soon to take charge. His family will accompany him. It is pretty safe to say that a hotel that he cannot manage or run successfully cannot be run at all. He knows every crook and turn about the business from top to bottom—how to buy, what to buy and what to pay for it. Then he knows how to put it before his guests in the most tempting fashion. His friends here are sorry to have him leave us, but congratulate him on securing his new job. The Princess Anne is a very large and fine hotel, with perhaps 150 sleeping rooms, fitted with all modern conveniences, and the Record wishes him the greatest measure of success."

Two Skeletons Unearthed Yesterday on Avon Street.

The character of the inhabitants of the Locality Causes Suspicion of Foul Play—Detectives and Coroner Will Investigate the Find.

While excavating for the foundation of a building on Avon street yesterday afternoon the employees of Garden & Sharpley, contractors, found the coffin of a man or woman and a small box, in which was the skeleton of an infant.

A GASTLY FIND

Two Skeletons Unearthed Yesterday on Avon Street.

The character of the inhabitants of the Locality Causes Suspicion of Foul Play—Detectives and Coroner Will Investigate the Find.

The ghastly find attracted several hundred persons to the scene, which is in the heart of the section of the city inhabited by disreputable women. The casement was buried three or four feet in the ground, just back of the house three doors from Washington street, on the eastern side of Avon street.

The house was last occupied by a negro named Sue Pitts, who kept several white girls as boarders. The Pitts woman is said to have lived there for the past eight or ten years. The police say that with possibly two exceptions she is the most disreputable of her class in the city.

POLICE ARE SUSPICIOUS.
As soon as the ghastly discovery was reported at Police Headquarters Captain Price called Detective West to work on the case. The police are inclined to think that the find means foul play. They say the coffin and box could not have been buried more than ten years at the most, and very probably not over five years.

DR. NEWTON VIEWS SKELETON.
Dr. E. V. Newton, City Coroner, who the partly uncovered coffin and had it broken open, the head of the skeleton could be taken out. He thought the head was that of a man, and said it was probable that it may have been buried just a few years, or it may have been there for fifty years. That section was once a market area, and the ground is very soggy now. Dr. Newton thought the brackish soil would preserve the coffin for any number of years.

It was suggested by some that the bodies may have been buried there during the scourge of yellow fever which devastated Norfolk in 1855. At that time the dead were buried in many places which to-day are covered with streets and houses.

SAY HOUSE WAS HAUNTED.
A policeman who has been on the Avon street beat for some time says he has often heard the superstitious negroes declare that the house in the rear of which the skeletons were found was haunted. This is regarded merely as the invention of some of the negroes who live in the rear.

WILL INVESTIGATE FURTHER.
Coroner Newton gave orders to cover up the coffin and to-day he will have both skeletons removed to the City Morgue, where he will make an investigation, and the meantime the police and detectives are working on the case, and the mystery may be explained away by these searches.

The Saks Stores
We're outtalked often—outdone never.

It's time to wear a Fall Hat when it'll be comfortable. That's now—and we're ready with them.

In Our To-order Department

we carry out the principle of the Saks Stores. That is of guaranteeing the best satisfaction for as little outlay as possible. But we shall always ask enough for the clothes we make to give you what you expect to get when you have clothes made to order.

Cheap tailoring cannot do that. On the other hand, there's such a thing as charging too much. It's right between the two extremes that our Tailoring Department fits in.

Of course with our long list of patrons we have to have the largest line of imported stuffs to show you for choice. They are patterns that are withheld from everybody else here—so that we shall have them exclusively.

An artist cutter will take the measure—and cut the garments—and an artist tailor will put them together. That we're still making for men who have been our patrons for thirty years seems to us to be about the strongest recommendation anybody could have.

"Right"—tailoring at the "right" price. That's the whole story in a nutshell.

Any Liveries needed? Ready-to-wear or to order—we can serve you either way.
